

A puppet Controlled by the elite to fulfil their own selfish agendas. Aware of current events and morally correct and unselfish Open minded, understanding, a voice for many communities Genuine kind and attentive. Listens to everyone and their values understanding, pro-active, has vision, responsible, influential Fair, woke Someone who makes the right decisions that will be morally right, unlike the current leader. Hopefully a person of colour Empathetic. Wise. Similar to the Prime Minister of New Zealand, someone with a good head on their shoulders. A future leader will be a person who leads for the good, selfless,honest,compassionate and listen to the voice of the people.Treat everyone equally and ensure peace. I have no idea I do not know if I am being honest but I do hope our future leader will take into consideration the people's views and what is happening around the community Inclusive of all cultures and ethnicities, democratic, environmentally conscious Non-racist or non-hypocrite has all the skills and belief and experience and the know how and talents they need to go out and fight for humanity For the people. Not sure Someone from gen Z — passionate + hopefully attentive towards all social issues, intersectional, inclusive and kind. someone who cares and will go the extra mile Someone who listens to everyone's opinions but does not accept everyone's opinions. Instead, they narrow these opinions and do what is best for the environment and planet. Hopefully more tolerant and an actual decent human being. Would love for them to be female and a POC Hopefully- a person who understands social issues and makes steps towards change. Realistically- a megalomaniac who cares about profit over the wellbeing of their people Educated, inclusive, care about social issues, the environment, holds corporations responsible Young, passionate, creative, intuitive, compassionate and not just one person "Caring For the people Active " Inclusive. A thought leader who isn't afraid to trailblaze. Empathetic Much like other leaders in the past. Authoritative positions in the UK are held by the majority of the same demographic; white middle-class men. someone who is open-minded and has clear ethics and values. someone who is reasonable and is ready to listen to communities Not sure They will have to be conscious of social issues affecting people outside of their own ethnicity/sexuality/class etc. And be focussed on tackling these issues. They will have to care about social welfare and communities coming together to support one another. They cannot just be an Etonian Toy. The same as last leaders, university educated, white, older men. I'm not sure, I could say what I would hope for but for many reasons I think that will not be the case Probably annoying centrists They will not just hear, they will listen. They will put their feet in others shoes and work WITH rather than FOR. Their aim is to no longer be a leader, as they will have empowered everyone else to be a leader too. Woke as fuck "Respective of all classes, race, genders etc Empathetic Good listener and problem solver Not selfish or in it for the money/fame/progression " Not a tory Genuine I hope they will believe in equality for all and will work on making sure it's a reality. I also hope they will actually listen to the public and what they want Either the same as before or more representative of future issues and ambitions Aware of how the world is changing and making changes accordingly to benefit the world A future leader needs to have an open mind, to be honest, and learn from their mistakes. They need to be decisive but understand the consequences that come with each decision and accept that they can never please everybody but still try to come from a place of understanding towards those they have let down. Hopefully, politically and socially aware of the issues young people face. Probably another wealthy, privileged, Eton, white man, who only cares about his personal legacy in Gov. It's hard to say, but I hope they will be progressive and listen to (and act in favour of) the voices of the working class, younger generations, and those discriminated against. The same as always. Unrepresentative and uncaring and a bit useless listen to the public Fuck News. how can you trust or predict anything these days we'd need a revolution to know that it was going to be someone just and honest, representative, fair, caring haha Probably just as corrupt, selfish and uncaring as politicians today Someone more like AOC in the states (Occasio-Cortez) with experience of low income working, experience of discrimination and the willingness and drive to change it Hopefully a nice person who genuinely wants to do good for people. Hopefully more supportive than the leaders we have today Strong minded, direct, listens to people and acts on it, Not sure - if we follow the current trend then probably someone incompetent and blinded by party politics not interested in the long term health of the country and it's people Hopefully intelligent, charismatic, balanced, knowledgeable about people's lives and situations someone who has empathy, compassion, a willingness to help others, the drive to get things done Hopefully aware and willing to consider all perspectives. Someone who represents groups that need more representation e.g. POC and LGBTQ+ Decisive, caring, intelligent. Someone who is open minded and is open to listening to young peoples voices and opinions. Also someone who isn't the social norm of a white middle aged man who studied at Eton. Diverse and Able to Listen and accept failure A women, compassionate, strong leadership skills and happy to go out and learn from people with experience on matters she is trying to change policy around Better than Boris Johnson If I'm thinking optimistically, a future leader will embody everything our current generation is: passionate, progressive, open-minded, and hopefully more diverse and less Tory than our current government. Hopefully a woman! "Like Jacinda Ardern " will like them to be kind , respectful, willing to listen and admit if they don't know or need support/guidance/have made a mistake. but I think future leaders will just get more and more right wing, sadly " Oppressive and angry Somebody who strives for positive change and freedom of choice amongst everybody Someone who appreciates every type of person and understand all view points, even if they are against their own Hopefully an inclusive one. Hopefully not a corrupt one. Fair and more equal to everyone "Inclusive Genuine Passionate" With our generation someone open minded,respectful and hard working I would want a future leader to be respectful and considerate of all people no matter their background, race, sexuality etc. I would want them to think of what is best for the people however I don't think that will be the case. I think they will be selfish, irresponsible and disrespectful as this seems to be the pattern. Treats everyone equal no matter their circumstances Somebody confident, independent, strong, controlling but understanding Someone who actually listens. White male Hopefully innovative, accepting and tolerant. "Female Open minded Strong" Probably similar as to the leaders are now All leaders are the same Hopefully someone fair and wants to create an equal society for all. Has a passion for sustainability. In reality, I think it will be a privileged white man who cares about the economy more than anything. If our current leaders are anything to go by, then I don't have much hope for future leaders, Representative. An old white cis straight male - as usual. Awful I want to say all positive things, but the way the world is going, probs Trump but worse Someone who is of a lower social class, who can understand the needs of all members of the public "good or bad? Not sure because Qn not specific enough... but hopefully more diverse! " " hopefully someone with the best interests of the majority as opposed to the minority. A strong willed and passionate individual. " I truly hope to be led by someone who benefits the plenty and not just the "elite". Living in the North of Ireland a country consumed largely by sectarian beliefs I would love to have a leader who will unite the two religious groups along with all other cultures in a new and united Ireland. Ideally I would like a more socialist approach to the economy but I cannot see that happening any time soon. Humble Cautious, a good listener, proactive, brave, ethical, open-minded Fair. Probably a white man, black, female or gender non conforming, not blinded by religious views, feminist, fair in judgement, raises up the working class. Inclusive, understands the issues of the world and actually presents solutions Dictatorial, using new technology such as social media in order to control the population, much like in China. Hopefully honest Makes everyone feel heard and respected. Understands the network of society and how people of different classes and backgrounds interact with each other. "Hopefully better than leaders right now " To be honest I'm not really sure about it Understanding of all political viewpoints. "Concerned for social issues. Representative of society (not just a white, rich, middle aged, cis, het man). Not a twat hopefully. " A liar like all... Honourable, eloquent, trustworthy, woke Old? I don't really understand the question. Take initiative and action on social issues and focus globally too, not just on the Uk I wish I could predict that, no one predicted trump Could be anyone - depends on public opinion and attitude at the time, Representative, liberal, fair Genuine Empathetic, more relatable to the younger generation, will hopefully focus more on the needs of the people rather than a select elite few and large corporations Liberal, Reformative Depends who it is. Hopefully better than everyone at the moment Same as always Inclusive Ideally someone who doesn't ignore clear problems in society and doesn't base all their decisions on how much money is involved. Someone who cares about the people of the country and not just the power behind it. Unfortunately it doesn't seem like those types of leaders exist because of the privilege required to get that high in office. I hope that they will be accepting of all religions, races, sexualities and genders and have a closer understanding of the lower classes. A liar White Strong Some who understand his/ her subjects needs and problems and try to solve it Realistic, honest and for change/progression Someone who is responsible confused like boris not sure Not sure YES I don't know Truthful hopefully idk A left wing passionate union supporter who is anti capitalist and can stop climate change Female, black representative of all people. Caring and kind Compassionate wise determined Dunno Awful I don't know I don't have much hope in future leaders at the moment I don't know. What does this mean? Some 60 year old. Terrible like always Unable to provide safety for the planet and people Decisive, organised and considerate invest in equality Hopefully a good leader Hopefully, there won't be one. they should

WHAT DO YOU THINK

A FUTURE LEADER

WILL BE LIKE?

Hopefully someone who understands social issues and makes steps towards change. Realistically- a megalomaniac who cares about profit over the wellbeing of their people Educated, inclusive, care about social issues, the environment, holds corporations responsible Young, passionate, creative, intuitive, compassionate and not just one person "Caring For the people Active " Inclusive. A thought leader who isn't afraid to trailblaze. Empathetic Much like other leaders in the past. Authoritative positions in the UK are held by the majority of the same demographic; white middle-class men. someone who is open-minded and has clear ethics and values. someone who is reasonable and is ready to listen to communities Not sure They will have to be conscious of social issues affecting people outside of their own ethnicity/sexuality/class etc. And be focussed on tackling these issues. They will have to care about social welfare and communities coming together to support one another. They cannot just be an Etonian Toy. The same as last leaders, university educated, white, older men. I'm not sure, I could say what I would hope for but for many reasons I think that will not be the case Probably annoying centrists They will not just hear, they will listen. They will put their feet in others shoes and work WITH rather than FOR. Their aim is to no longer be a leader, as they will have empowered everyone else to be a leader too. Woke as fuck "Respective of all classes, race, genders etc Empathetic Good listener and problem solver Not selfish or in it for the money/fame/progression " Not a tory Genuine I hope they will believe in equality for all and will work on making sure it's a reality. I also hope they will actually listen to the public and what they want Either the same as before or more representative of future issues and ambitions Aware of how the world is changing and making changes accordingly to benefit the world A future leader needs to have an open mind, to be honest, and learn from their mistakes. They need to be decisive but understand the consequences that come with each decision and accept that they can never please everybody but still try to come from a place of understanding towards those they have let down. Hopefully, politically and socially aware of the issues young people face. Probably another wealthy, privileged, Eton, white man, who only cares about his personal legacy in Gov. It's hard to say, but I hope they will be progressive and listen to (and act in favour of) the voices of the working class, younger generations, and those discriminated against. The same as always. Unrepresentative and uncaring and a bit useless listen to the public Fuck News. how can you trust or predict anything these days we'd need a revolution to know that it was going to be someone just and honest, representative, fair, caring haha Probably just as corrupt, selfish and uncaring as politicians today Someone more like AOC in the states (Occasio-Cortez) with experience of low income working, experience of discrimination and the willingness and drive to change it Hopefully a nice person who genuinely wants to do good for people. Hopefully more supportive than the leaders we have today Strong minded, direct, listens to people and acts on it, Not sure - if we follow the current trend then probably someone incompetent and blinded by party politics not interested in the long term health of the country and it's people Hopefully intelligent, charismatic, balanced, knowledgeable about people's lives and situations someone who has empathy, compassion, a willingness to help others, the drive to get things done Hopefully aware and willing to consider all perspectives. Someone who represents groups that need more representation e.g. POC and LGBTQ+ Decisive, caring, intelligent. Someone who is open minded and is open to listening to young peoples voices and opinions. Also someone who isn't the social norm of a white middle aged man who studied at Eton. Diverse and Able to Listen and accept failure A women, compassionate, strong leadership skills and happy to go out and learn from people with experience on matters she is trying to change policy around Better than Boris Johnson If I'm thinking optimistically, a future leader will embody everything our current generation is: passionate, progressive, open-minded, and hopefully more diverse and less Tory than our current government. Hopefully a woman! "Like Jacinda Ardern " will like them to be kind , respectful, willing to listen and admit if they don't know or need support/guidance/have made a mistake. but I think future leaders will just get more and more right wing, sadly " Oppressive and angry Somebody who strives for positive change and freedom of choice amongst everybody Someone who appreciates every type of person and understand all view points, even if they are against their own Hopefully an inclusive one. Hopefully not a corrupt one. Fair and more equal to everyone "Inclusive Genuine Passionate" With our generation someone open minded,respectful and hard working I would want a future leader to be respectful and considerate of all people no matter their background, race, sexuality etc. I would want them to think of what is best for the people however I don't think that will be the case. I think they will be selfish, irresponsible and disrespectful as this seems to be the pattern. Treats everyone equal no matter their circumstances Somebody confident, independent, strong, controlling but understanding Someone who actually listens. White male Hopefully innovative, accepting and tolerant. "Female Open minded Strong" Probably similar as to the leaders are now All leaders are the same Hopefully someone fair and wants to create an equal society for all. Has a passion for sustainability. In reality, I think it will be a privileged white man who cares about the economy more than anything. If our current leaders are anything to go by, then I don't have much hope for future leaders, Representative. An old white cis straight male - as usual. Awful I want to say all positive things, but the way the world is going, probs Trump but worse Someone who is of a lower social class, who can understand the needs of all members of the public "good or bad? Not sure because Qn not specific enough... but hopefully more diverse! " " hopefully someone with the best interests of the majority as opposed to the minority. A strong willed and passionate individual. " I truly hope to be led by someone who benefits the plenty and not just the "elite". Living in the North of Ireland a country consumed largely by sectarian beliefs I would love to have a leader who will unite the two religious groups along with all other cultures in a new and united Ireland. Ideally I would like a more socialist approach to the economy but I cannot see that happening any time soon. Humble Cautious, a good listener, proactive, brave, ethical, open-minded Fair. Probably a white man, black, female or gender non conforming, not blinded by religious views, feminist, fair in judgement, raises up the working class. Inclusive, understands the issues of the world and actually presents solutions Dictatorial, using new technology such as social media in order to control the population, much like in China. Hopefully honest Makes everyone feel heard and respected. Understands the network of society and how people of different classes and backgrounds interact with each other. "Hopefully better than leaders right now " To be honest I'm not really sure about it Understanding of all political viewpoints. "Concerned for social issues. Representative of society (not just a white, rich, middle aged, cis, het man). Not a twat hopefully. " A liar like all... Honourable, eloquent, trustworthy, woke Old? I don't really understand the question. Take initiative and action on social issues and focus globally too, not just on the Uk I wish I could predict that, no one predicted trump Could be anyone - depends on public opinion and attitude at the time, Representative, liberal, fair Genuine Empathetic, more relatable to the younger generation, will hopefully focus more on the needs of the people rather than a select elite few and large corporations Liberal, Reformative Depends who it is. Hopefully better than everyone at the moment Same as always Inclusive Ideally someone who doesn't ignore clear problems in society and doesn't base all their decisions on how much money is involved. Someone who cares about the people of the country and not just the power behind it. Unfortunately it doesn't seem like those types of leaders exist because of the privilege required to get that high in office. I hope that they will be accepting of all religions, races, sexualities and genders and have a closer understanding of the lower classes. A liar White Strong Some who understand his/ her subjects needs and problems and try to solve it Realistic, honest and for change/progression Someone who is responsible confused like boris not sure Not sure YES I don't know Truthful hopefully idk A left wing passionate union supporter who is anti capitalist and can stop climate change Female, black representative of all people. Caring and kind Compassionate wise determined Dunno Awful I don't know I don't have much hope in future leaders at the moment I don't know. What does this mean? Some 60 year old. Terrible like always Unable to provide safety for the planet and people Decisive, organised and considerate invest in equality Hopefully a good leader Hopefully, there won't be one. they should be someone who understands social issues and makes steps towards change. Realistically- a megalomaniac who cares about profit over the wellbeing of their people Educated, inclusive, care about social issues, the environment, holds corporations responsible Young, passionate, creative, intuitive, compassionate and not just one person "Caring For the people Active " Inclusive. A thought leader who isn't afraid to trailblaze. Empathetic Much like other leaders in the past. Authoritative positions in the UK are held by the majority of the same demographic; white middle-class men. someone who is open-minded and has clear ethics and values. someone who is reasonable and is ready to listen to communities Not sure They will have to be conscious of social issues affecting people outside of their own ethnicity/sexuality/class etc. And be focussed on tackling these issues. They will have to care about social welfare and communities coming together to support one another. They cannot just be an Etonian Toy. The same as last leaders, university educated, white, older men. I'm not sure, I could say what I would hope for but for many reasons I think that will not be the case Probably annoying centrists They will not just hear, they will listen. They will put their feet in others shoes and work WITH rather than FOR. Their aim is to no longer be a leader, as they will have empowered everyone else to be a leader too. Woke as fuck "Respective of all classes, race, genders etc Empathetic Good listener and problem solver Not selfish or in it for the money/fame/progression " Not a tory Genuine I hope they will believe in equality for all and will work on making sure it's a reality. I also hope they will actually listen to the public and what they want Either the same as before or more representative of future issues and ambitions Aware of how the world is changing and making changes accordingly to benefit the world A future leader needs to have an open mind, to be honest, and learn from their mistakes. They need to be decisive but understand the consequences that come with each decision and accept that they can never please everybody but still try to come from a place of understanding towards those they have let down. Hopefully, politically and socially aware of the issues young people face. Probably another wealthy, privileged, Eton, white man, who only cares about his personal legacy in Gov. It's hard to say, but I hope they will be progressive and listen to (and act in favour of) the voices of the working class, younger generations, and those discriminated against. The same as always. Unrepresentative and uncaring and a bit useless listen to the public Fuck News. how can you trust or predict anything these days we'd need a revolution to know that it was going to be someone just and honest, representative, fair, caring haha Probably just as corrupt, selfish and uncaring as politicians today Someone more like AOC in the states (Occasio-Cortez) with experience of low income working, experience of discrimination and the willingness and drive to change it Hopefully a nice person who genuinely wants to do good for people. Hopefully more supportive than the leaders we have today Strong minded, direct, listens to people and acts on it, Not sure - if we follow the current trend then probably someone incompetent and blinded by party politics not interested in the long term health of the country and it's people Hopefully intelligent, charismatic, balanced, knowledgeable about people's lives and situations someone who has empathy, compassion, a willingness to help others, the drive to get things done Hopefully aware and willing to consider all perspectives. Someone who represents groups that need more representation e.g. POC and LGBTQ+ Decisive, caring, intelligent. Someone who is open minded and is open to listening to young peoples voices and opinions. Also someone who isn't the social norm of a white middle aged man who studied at Eton. Diverse and Able to Listen and accept failure A women, compassionate, strong leadership skills and happy to go out and learn from people with experience on matters she is trying to change policy around Better than Boris Johnson If I'm thinking optimistically, a future leader will embody everything our current generation is: passionate, progressive, open-minded, and hopefully more diverse and less Tory than our current government. Hopefully a woman! "Like Jacinda Ardern " will like them to be kind , respectful, willing to listen and admit if they don't know or need support/guidance/have made a mistake. but I think future leaders will just get more and more right wing, sadly " Oppressive and angry Somebody who strives for positive change and freedom of choice amongst everybody Someone who appreciates every type of person and understand all view points, even if they are against their own Hopefully an inclusive one. Hopefully not a corrupt one. Fair and more equal to everyone "Inclusive Genuine Passionate" With our generation someone open minded,respectful and hard working I would want a future leader to be respectful and considerate of all people no matter their background, race, sexuality etc. I would want them to think of what is best for the people however I don't think that will be the case. I think they will be selfish, irresponsible and disrespectful as this seems to be the pattern. Treats everyone equal no matter their circumstances Somebody confident, independent, strong, controlling but understanding Someone who actually listens. White male Hopefully innovative, accepting and tolerant. "Female Open minded Strong" Probably similar as to the leaders are now All leaders are the same Hopefully someone fair and wants to create an equal society for all. Has a passion for sustainability. In reality, I think it will be a privileged white man who cares about the economy more than anything. If our current leaders are anything to go by, then I don't have much hope for future leaders, Representative. An old white cis straight male - as usual. Awful I want to say all positive things, but the way the world is going, probs Trump but worse Someone who is of a lower social class, who can understand the needs of all members of the public "good or bad? Not sure because Qn not specific enough... but hopefully more diverse! " " hopefully someone with the best interests of the majority as opposed to the minority. A strong willed and passionate individual. " I truly hope to be led by someone who benefits the plenty and not just the "elite". Living in the North of Ireland a country consumed largely by sectarian beliefs I would love to have a leader who will unite the two religious groups along with all other cultures in a new and united Ireland. Ideally I would like a more socialist approach to the economy but I cannot see that happening any time soon. Humble Cautious, a good listener, proactive, brave, ethical, open-minded Fair. Probably a white man, black, female or gender non conforming, not blinded by religious views, feminist, fair in judgement, raises up the working class. Inclusive, understands the issues of the world and actually presents solutions Dictatorial, using new technology such as social media in order to control the population, much like in China. Hopefully honest Makes everyone feel heard and respected. Understands the network of society and how people of different classes and backgrounds interact with each other. "Hopefully better than leaders right now " To be honest I'm not really sure about it Understanding of all political viewpoints. "Concerned for social issues. Representative of society (not just a white, rich, middle aged, cis, het man). Not a twat hopefully. " A liar like all... Honourable, eloquent, trustworthy, woke Old? I don't really understand the question. Take initiative and action on social issues and focus globally too, not just on the Uk I wish I could predict that, no one predicted trump Could be anyone - depends on public opinion and attitude at the time, Representative, liberal, fair Genuine Empathetic, more relatable to the younger generation, will hopefully focus more on the needs of the people rather than a select elite few and large corporations Liberal, Reformative Depends who it is. Hopefully better than everyone at the moment Same as always Inclusive Ideally someone who doesn't ignore clear problems in society and doesn't base all their decisions on how much money is involved. Someone who cares about the people of the country and not just the power behind it. Unfortunately it doesn't seem like those types of leaders exist because of the privilege required to get that high in office. I hope that they will be accepting of all religions, races, sexualities and genders and have a closer understanding of the lower classes. A liar White Strong Some who understand his/ her subjects needs and problems and try to solve it Realistic, honest and for change/progression Someone who is responsible confused like boris not sure Not sure YES I don't know Truthful hopefully idk A left wing passionate union supporter who is anti capitalist and can stop climate change Female, black representative of all people. Caring and kind Compassionate wise determined Dunno Awful I don't know I don't have much hope in future leaders at the moment I don't know. What does this mean? Some 60 year old. Terrible like always Unable to provide safety for the planet and people Decisive, organised and considerate invest in equality Hopefully a good leader Hopefully, there won't be one. they should